Aloha Saint Louis School Parents and Guardians,

Providing our students an integral and quality education is something every Marianist school strives for and Saint Louis School is no exception. Although I’ve mentioned this in the past, I enjoy sharing my goal of strengthening the 3 A’s at Saint Louis School: Academics, Athletics, and the Arts, while continuing its proud tradition of building Saint Louis Men who are mindful and faithful.

This past Friday, we took another step towards strengthening all 3 A’s at SLS with the hiring of June Jones as Director of Athletic Programs and Development. Athletically, June will assist in raising funds to improve its facilities, create new scholarships and increase financial aid for students who excel in athletics, academics and the arts. Moreover, having June here will also strengthen academics at Saint Louis School. In my interviews with June, he voiced to me that he sincerely wants to do what it takes to prepare our students academically to get into the best colleges they can. As a former football coach at various universities, he expressed to me his disappointment in the past when high school students could not play for Division I schools because of low test scores and grades received in high school. June will make it a priority to communicate to our students the importance of performing well in the classroom in addition to the field, court or on water. Moreover, June’s work to raise money for our athletic programs can help us divert money into providing even more resources for the arts and academics at Saint Louis School. It is very expensive to fund athletic programs. June will work with each SLS coach with the goal of making our athletics teams self-sufficient by fundraising, creating new tournaments, and more.

Below you will find pictures celebrating many recent accomplishments by our SLS ʻohana. Although there is much to give thanks for today, we must continue to reach for excellence in all that we do from academics, the arts, athletics and more. Have a great week!

Memor et Fidelis,

Glenn Medeiros, Ed.D.
Saint Louis School
Head of School
Here our kindergarten students are working hard on their handwriting in class.

Tua, Class of 2017, was given special recognition by the U.S. Army for his accomplishments on and off the football field.
The band concert in Mamiya Theater was enjoyable to listen to and watch!

Our PTO has done much this year not only to assist SLS, but in this case, help the Ronald McDonald House.
SLS was represented well at this year’s Kaimuki Christmas Parade by our football team, band, and JROTC.

Here SLS parents take part in a very special moment for students who attended a recent retreat.

Here Calvin Say ’70 visited his alma mater to support our Robotics Team Casino Night fundraiser!
The Brotherhood between these upperclassmen and our elementary school students is simply amazing!

As we celebrate our accomplishments, we also remember Keo Woolford, a 1985 graduate of Saint Louis School, who unexpectedly passed away last week leaving behind a great legacy for his brothers here on campus to strive towards.