Aloha Saint Louis School Parents and Guardians,

As we approach the end of 2016 calendar year, we have much to be thankful for this holiday season. For 170 years and counting, Saint Louis School continues to mold boys into Saint Louis Men by educating them in the Marianist tradition. None of this would be possible without your support and we thank you for entrusting us to educate your sons. To those who generously give to Saint Louis School in time and donations, your support allows us to continue our mission to educate and challenge students of various religious, ethnic, and economic backgrounds that they may achieve a quality education and become gentlemen of character, reaching individual potential through the Catholic Marianist tradition of spiritual, academic, physical and emotional maturity.

On behalf of everyone at Saint Louis School, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year! Our prayers will be with you this holiday season.

Memor et Fidelis,

Glenn Medeiros, Ed.D.

Here our Middle School students rehearse for their next performance.

Pictured here our high school students join Bishop Larry Silva in helping women in prison to celebrate this holiday with their children.
Representatives from Kamehameha Schools visited us to learn about what we are doing to teach Hawaiian language and culture to our students. They were very impressed.

Here our Civil Air Patrol cadets learn about the wonders of space and time as part of their aerospace training.
Members of the Class of 1954 visited Saint Louis School with a donation for our elementary school.

On the way back to my office, I came across these two Crusaders politely wishing me good afternoon.
Our soccer team celebrated a great victory this past week.

This keiki Crusader personifies the spirit of Christmas all year around. He volunteers his time each morning to welcome students and their families by helping them out of their cars and taking part in various fundraisers that help others in our community. In this picture, he is seen collecting funds for the Salvation Army. I am so proud of him and many other Crusaders who represent this school so well.
