Aloha Saint Louis School Parents and Guardians,

Saint Louis School is known for producing graduates committed to service, justice and peace. In addition to becoming doctors, lawyers, politicians, and more, many of our graduates have become military leaders in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, the Coast Guard and National Guard. Along those lines, hundreds of graduates have served our country as firefighters and police officers.

Some may ask where this commitment to helping others comes from. It is my personal belief that our unique Marianist tradition of molding young men into Saint Louis Gentlemen with the example of Blessed Chaminade is one of the reasons. During the turbulence following the French Revolution, Blessed Chaminade put service before self by risking his life to spread the teachings of Catholicism in France and elsewhere. Eventually, those who followed his path made their way to the other side of the globe to make a difference here in Hawaii and we are so grateful.

Memor et Fidelis,

Glenn Medeiros, Ed.D.

In this picture our elementary school students bless our 5th grade students with a prayer prior to their field trip.

Our soccer team came up one point short of the state championship, but their camaraderie continues in defeat.
Here our JROTC cadets promote Saint Louis School at our Open House.

Our Class of 67’ and their wives saw our elementary school campus for the first time and they really loved it!
Our SLS band played music while prospective Crusaders entered Mamiya Theater for our Open House.

SLS graduate Kapali Long ’09 will be auditioning for the television show “The Voice” coming to television soon!
Our annual SLS Alumni Softball Tournament was a success thanks to all of our alumni.

Several foreign languages are taught at SLS and the presentations made by our instructors were fabulous!
Major General Arthur Logan, graduate of Saint Louis School, took time from his busy schedule to speak at our Open House yesterday. Major General Logan oversees the training and readiness of nearly 6,000 Soldiers and Airmen of the Hawaii National Guard. He also serves at the Director of Hawaii Emergency Management Agency, providing direct support to the Office of Veterans Services. Finally, he is the Homeland Security Advisor to the Governor.

Major General Logan credits much of his success in life to his experiences at Saint Louis School and the Brotherhood that continues to provide him the support he relies on in the form of friends and family. On behalf of everyone at Saint Louis School, thank you Major General Logan for modeling what it means to be a Saint Louis Gentleman through your commitment to service, justice and peace in our world.
