Aloha Saint Louis School Parents and Guardians,

As you will see by reviewing the pictures below, all five of the Characteristics of a Marianist Education were addressed in some way through the various activities our students recently took part in.

Our students fought for service, justice and peace by taking part in the latest Mackey Lecture focused on helping those who are homeless in Hawaii. An integral education was provided by traveling internationally to Japan and taking part in the musical Hairspray. Finally, we formed our faith, adapted to change, and shared our family spirit at our Mother/Father and Son Day celebration that was combined for the very first time.

Our Saint Louis School gentlemen wore traditional Japanese clothing at this stop during their recent visit to Japan.
At the latest Mackey Lecture, our JROTC cadets greeted audience members as they entered the Mystical Rose Chapel.

It is a Saint Louis School tradition for faculty and staff to stand in line to welcome students as they walk into the prom.
Our Saint Louis Rifle team continues to excel as shown in these pictures.

This Senior did a beautiful job of leading everyone in the closing prayer of the last Mackey Lecture in the Mystical Rose Chapel.
These two Crusaders experienced a good time at their baseball retreat.

The musical Hairspray was an absolute success at Mamiya Theater.
Of the many pictures I took during our Mother/Father and Son Day, this one shows the pride these two parents have in their son as he recites a prayer for them. These special moments are priceless and make all of the hard work we do at Saint Louis School worth it. Of course, none of this would be possible without the spectacular work of our PTO. In addition, our fabulous faculty, staff, parents and administrators came through as they always do and I am very appreciative of that.
